

Recently, someone wrote to me and in what they wrote they stated:

“For me, I’m wanting a democratic and equal society and a government that says ‘no co-governance in any context!’”

This is correct.

You see, if Luxon and his coalition partners ‘tinker’ with co-governance, much like a gardener lite pruning a tree, the Maori elite will simply re-group and spend 3, 6, or 9 years waiting in the wings and planning, getting ready to start back up where they left off in 2023.

The day will come again when Labour will return, and with it the Maori caucus.

That is to say, they will keep edging towards taking over the country completely, which is their now obvious long term goal.

“Co-governance” is simply code for “coup.” This is a crucially important point.

The only solution is to completely expunge the idea of co-governance from all legislation, dismantle all “Maori” ministries in Parliament, repeal all race based legislation, and put to the sword the Treaty of Waitangi and the Waitangi tribunal.

They must never be allowed to rise again. There can be no phoenix here.

How can this be achieved?

I believe there has been a combination of deep corruption / poor decision making via the influence of activist politicians (e.g Key and Finlayson) and Judges (e.g. Cooke) in all the political parties who have contributed to the mess we are in in 2022. The trail goes back all the way to pre-1840 days.

Finlayson, Cooke, and Key - who are they? The gruesome threesome.

What’s needed is a Royal Commission, carried out by offshore judges, to investigate the Treaty of Waitangi fraud.

If these things could be achieved, elite Maori would kick up one hell of a fuss, but so be it. World War 2 was a hell of a fuss too. If a person fights for what’s right, they are always on the winning side.

But the allies paid the price with their very lives. It was not a cheap victory.

What were they fighting for?

To preserve freedom and democracy. What are we fighting against? Tribal rule.

Our victory will not be cheap either.

This is a war for democracy and freedom against tribal rule and totalitarian Maori dictatorship. Essentially, it’s a war to prevent pre-1840 tribal rule returning to New Zealand.

If this is allowed to happen, our country will be finished forever and will never recover.

We will indeed become the Zimbabwe of the South Pacific.

My view is that only .1% of kiwis have woken up to this fact - this reality, including politicians.

Our job between now and the election is to awaken the giant - the 99.9%.

We must mobilise tens of thousands of Kiwis to March on Parliament before the next election.

Even stage a rally and fill Eden Park.

What will this do?

It will send a clear message to all the political parties that Kiwis will never accept 'tinkering' with co-governance.

“Either expunge it, as per what I have said in this email, or you won't get our vote.”

Awareness is the key to change.

As in any war, the winning side can't afford to have any passive observers. Not one.

Absolutely everyone in the .1% must engage now with friends, family and complete strangers in order to reach the giant.

We have time, but only just.

Join the fight: www.stopcogovernance.kiwi

Get these business cards printed. And start handing them out to everyone everywhere. We can't just sit around and write about the problem, and talk to our mates about it, and write to politicians. It's the average person on the street, through their vote, who, ultimately, can change this situation by their active participation in the fight.

Sign a petition here.

STOP
CO-GOVERNANCE

JOIN THE FIGHT
WWW.STOPCOGOVERNANCE.KIWI

TAKE A STAND AGAINST THE DESTRUCTION
OF OUR ONCE BEAUTIFUL
COUNTRY CALLED
NEW ZEALAND